FAA WINGS

The objective of the WINGS—Pilot Proficiency Program is to reduce the number of accidents in General Aviation (GA) by assisting airmen to find educational opportunities designed to help them apply the principles of risk assessment and risk management (RM).

- When properly applied, these principles will help mitigate accident causal factors associated with common pilot errors, lack of proficiency, and faulty knowledge.
- The Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) purpose is to encourage the majority of GA pilots, through WINGS, to engage in ongoing, targeted flying tasks and learning activities keyed to identified risks and which are designed to mitigate those risks.
- The FAA continually collects and assesses its databases to identify the risks associated with GA flying and incorporates risk mitigation strategies into initial and ongoing pilot education.

FAA SAFETY TEAM MISSION STATEMENT

Improve the Nation's aviation accident rate by conveying safety principles and practices through training, outreach, and education; while establishing partnerships and encouraging the continual growth of a positive safety culture within the aviation community.

Flight Training Challenge Sweepstakes

We need your help! The WINGS Pilot Proficiency program has courses based on real world accident and incident causes so flight instructors, pilots and student pilots get training that can truly make a difference.

The Sweepstakes provides a CASH INCENTIVE to complete a WINGS Phase – whether Basic, Advanced or Master. For every Phase completed or validated, you get another chance to win!

Studies indicate that pilots who complete WINGS phases are safer aviators. Please join us saving lives.

For detailed information on the process to apply for credits or to validate WINGS, visit the Working WINGS page.

Please note - In 2018 only SAFE and NAFI member CFIs are eligible to enter during this Beta test period. Beginning in 2019 all pilots will be eligible to earn entries in the sweepstakes.
