Presented by Captain Judy Rice, Founder of Think Global Flight, Frederick Nasar, 2015 Flight Instructor Hall of Fame Honoree & Mike Thompson, CFI and Retired college dean

Do you feel like an impatient father or perhaps the security guard at the local department store when sending your student for the FAA Knowledge or Practical Exam? Does your student arrive in a civil avard, bring noise, and searching before the Exam? Know about the international student that likes and needs when you asked to bring the trouble to site? Or the domestic student bolting how great the landings were after screaming in fear.

Join us, getting greater confidence for you and your student during this MentorLIVE broadcast. You will discover tips and lessons learned on topics such as: Preparing domestic and international students for the FAA Knowledge and Practical Exams, student knowledge versus memorization, the role of published materials, encouraging nervous students, and more. Be sure to bring your questions and share a lesson learned!
